Oral Communication

- In oral communication, spoken words are used.
- It includes face-to-face conversations, group, telephonic communication, video, radio, television, voice over internet.
- Communication is influenced by pitch, volume, speed and clarity of speaking.

↳ Advantages
It brings quick feedback in a face-to-face communication, spreading formal education and local language and also gives immediate feedback about what's being said or not.

↳ Disadvantages
In face-to-face communication, need to change to develop more about which he is suffering, so this can be counted as a drawback.

Oral Communication

- In oral communication, fastest words are used.
- It includes face-to-face conversations, speech, telephonic conversation, video, radio, television, where there is no text.
- Communication is influenced by pitch, volume, speed and clarity of speaking.

Advantages
It allows quick feedback in a face-to-face conversation, by reading facial expressions and body language the can guess whether the other should stop what's being said or not.

Disadvantages
In face-to-face conversation, when it is possible to directly check about what he is delivering, as this can be counted as a fault.
