FOREWORD

The greatest challenge in today's ICT world is to cope theoretical knowledge along with technology. E-content & E-learning fosters love for learning, a curiosity for learners. The teacher has to ensure that students understand what they learn and it is not a just entertainment kind of knowledge, forgotten as soon as the duration is over. E-Content focuses the student's mind so that he/she becomes a better learner. E- Learning has, therefore, one major role - to turn out students who learn to use their mind, along with technology. When students know what they are doing and are prepared for it, they will take part in the E-content procedure with greater understanding. Students need contextualization at every point. That is the only way they will learn. The skill based, activity-based education or practical based teaching and learning is essential in today's digital India. It is heartening to note that the Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC) of college is organizing a Two Day's National Workshop on E- Content Development for Effective Teaching. I look forward to see this academic endeavor as a concrete step towards identifying innovative and effective strategies for bringing out changes in the present student's Teaching, Learning and Evaluation system. The programme is being conducted with selffinancial process. I am glad that the IQAC is also presenting a Report of the workshop that includes practical based teaching and learning and actively participation of all the stakeholders. My sincere thanks and appreciations are due to Management, Vice-Principal, Convenors, Coordinators, all the organizing members and the members of IQAC for taking great efforts in organizing this workshop and making it a grand success.

I extend my warm welcome to all the participants. I wish they would enjoy our company and this grand feast of knowledge.

PREFACE

Education is considered as an investment in human beings in terms of development of human resources, skills, motivation, knowledge and E-Content and E-learning in the context of education therefore helps to build an educational programme, assess its achievements and improve upon its effectiveness. It serves as an in-built monitor within the programme to review the progress in learning from time to time. In this sense, learning is a continuous process and a periodic exercise. In these modern times, wherein the concept of education itself is facing a paradigm shift, there are many issues that pose challenges to the existing evaluation system. Some of the issues include weaker relationship between learning outcomes and assessment, lack of transparency in assessment system, most systems are still based on marks, lesser stress on formative assessment, rare use of classroom assessment techniques, students hardly receive feedback to improve their learning, etc. To address these issues and to bring out effective changes in the second criteria of Teaching, Learning and evaluation of NAAC system, the IQAC has organized a National Workshop on 'E- Content Development for Effective Teaching'. All the sessions were quite interesting and effective and the resource persons focused on the E-content Development process, taking into consideration the guidelines of NAAC. Around 170 delegates, including 42 delegates from other institutions participated in the Seminar and actively took part in the deliberations. Among them 8 delegates belong to other states like Assam, Gujarat, Telangana, Karnataka and Kerala. We take this opportunity to whole heartedly thank all our Hon, Patrons of Shri, Amolak Jain Vidya Prasarak Mandal Kada, Principal, Dr. N.S. Rathi, Vice Principal, Dr. J. M. Bhandari for their constant motivation and encouragement, towards the successful conduct of the workshop.

We record our sincere gratitude to the two resource persons Mr. Bhushan Kulkarni and Eknath Kore of the Knowledge Bridge, Ahmednagar for accepting our invitation, contributing greatly and making the workshop quiet practical, fruitful and productive. We thank all Management of our Institution, members of IQAC and the organizing members, our faculty, administrative, technical, non-teaching staff and all dear students, without whose help, support and cooperation this seminar would not have been a grand success. We immensely thank for conducting this workshop. Finally, we profusely thank all the delegates from various states for their active participation throughout the workshop and this has greatly contributed to the success of the event. We wish you all a very healthy and comfortable stay at our Amolak Campus in these two days.
